

CONSCIENTIOUS PROJECTOR FILM SERIES

of the Social Justice Committee of the Berkeley Fellowship of Unitarian Universalists

Urban Gardens Under Attack?

Defend our Local Food Sources!

Berkeley Code Enforcement is selectively fining activists for supposed "violations" in their gardens with fines that amount to extortion and eviction. They target neighbors actively engaged in helping communities gain some self-sufficiency by organizing permaculture skill shares, work parties, and growing diverse, edible, organic gardens that inspire and feed hungry people, wildlife, bees and other beneficials. In this time of global climate change, ecological collapse, and economic distress, tax dollars are wasted on harassment of urban gardeners by city officials who single out activists for otherwise ignored code, as well as on county and state insect trapping programs that frequently target such gardens with pesticides and quarantines. Homegrown food and ecology is not a crime!

Film: FRIDAYS AT THE FARM

Speakers: Asa Dodsworth (Acton House Victory Garden)

Maxina Ventura (East Bay Pesticide Alert)

Nik Bertulis (Regenerative Design instructor, Merritt College)

Music: by Carol Denney and Max Food: by Food Not Bombs

Community Participation Invited

Support Urban Gardens by Growing one Yourself: Sign up for a Community Work Day in Your Yard

Monday, June 22, 2009 7-10pm

BFUU, 1924 Cedar Street (at Bonita) in Berkeley

(SCENT FREE, PLEASE)

Event sponsored by East Bay Pesticide Alert / Don't Spray California

Contact us if your garden is targeted with harassment or pesticides: (510) 895-2312 or beneficialbug@netzero.net

www.DontSprayCalifornia.org

Labor donated